Minutes from previous meeting

Our team has finished conducting the user studies and formatted the data collected into a report. Our team discussed how we can use the feedback from our participants in order to modify our website to meet our new criteria. There wasn't anything too elaborate or impossible that the participants requested of us, but just minor details that the team is planning to handle this week. Pouyan reported that there are some issues involved with hosting the project entirely, so we plan to consult with Nick Milef on 4/27 at his office hours. Lastly, we have narrowed down what is left to complete from the product backlog and the project manager has assigned tasks on the sprint backlog to the team.
